
Contents

A Note from the Editor, 203

German philosophy since 1945, 205

Herbert Schnädelbach

'The art of getting it wrong': an interview with Hans-Georg Gadamer, 213

Remarks on phenomenology in Germany:
the relevance of Husserl's phenomenological method to a philosophical movement, 218

Karl Mertens

The constructivism of the 'Erlanger Schule': background, goals and developments, 226

Carl Friedrich Gethmann & Geo Siegart

The object of philosophy: Tugendhat's semantical transformation of ontology, 234

Hans-Johann Glock

The entwinement of reason and violence: the Frankfurt School, 241

Nick Smith

On the present state of Marxism in Germany, 248

Hans Heinz Holz

Intrinsic right—intrinsic wrong? a critical examination of an old ethical debate in contemporary German theology, 255

Josef Seifert

Analytic ethics in German philosophy, 264

Anna Kusser, Klaus-Peter Rippe & Peter Schaber

Analysis exercise: Kant's first antinomy of pure reason, 268

'Who wants this progress?': an interview with Hermann Lübbe, 269

Problems of collective and corporate responsibility, 274

Hans Lenk

Obituary: Karl Raimund Popper, 1902–1994, 277

On the institute 'Vienna Circle', 282

Book reviews, 286

Philosophy news, 291

Editor's booknotes, 292

Crossword, 294

Title page and contents, volume 8, 1994, 295