

Contents

Introduction	1
James Conant and Sebastian Rödl
THE FUNDAMENTAL CHARACTER OF THE SECOND PERSON AS A FORM OF CONSCIOUSNESS
Action and Passion	13
Anton Ford
What Binds Us Together: Normativity and the Second Person	43
Glenda Satne
Alethic Holdings	63
Jeremy Wanderer
THE SECOND PERSON AS A FORM OF PRACTICAL CONSCIOUSNESS
The Transmission of Skill	85
Will Small
For Oneself and Toward Another: The Puzzle about Recognition	113
Matthias Haase
THE SECOND PERSON AS THE FORM OF PRIVATE LAW
The Very Thought of (Wronging) You	153
Ariel Zylberman
The Idea of an Ethical Community: Kant and Hegel on the Necessity of Human Evil and the Love to Overcome It	177
Wolfram Gobsch

The Social and the Sociable Stephen Darwall	201
THE PLACE OF THE SECOND PERSON IN THEORETICAL KNOWLEDGE
Theoretical Anarchism Benjamin McMyler	219
Darwall on Action and the Idea of a Second-Personal Reason Fabian Borchers	243
Kant on Testimony and the Communicability of Empirical Knowledge Alexandra Newton	271
Testimony and Generality Sebastian Rödl	291
ADDRESS AND ACKNOWLEDGMENT
Understanding Others in Social Interactions Monika Dullstein	303
What Is It to Know Someone? David Lauer	321
On Address Adrian Haddock	345