

Table of Contents

COMMUNICATION, CONFLICT, AND RECONCILIATION

Volume 17

Table of Contents

Preface	v
Introduction.....	1
PART I: PUBLIC DISCOURSE & RATIONAL POLITICS
The Definition of Massacre
Joseph Betz	9
Sincerity and Reconciliation in Public Reason
Richard M. Buck	21
Reasonable Moral Psychology and the Kantian Ace in the Hole
Sylvia Burrow	37
Geometry and the Science of Morality in Hobbes
Stephen Finn	57
PART II: MEDIATING CONFLICTS
The Geometry of Defection: Cascading Mimicry and Contract-Resistant Structures
Lou Marinoff.....	69
Communication and Human Good: The 20 th Century's Main Achievement
Jan Narveson	91
Is There a Role for Humor in the Midst of Conflict?
Nancy Potter	103
Professional Ethics for Mediators: Tensions Between Justice and Accountability
Alex Wellington	125

PART III: SOCIAL CRITICISM AND COMMUNICATION

Diversity and Communication in Feminist Theory
Gail Pohlhaus 153

On the Impotence of Cultural Post-Feminism
Heidi Hochededel and Douglas Mann 163

Dredging the Third Wave: Reflections on the Feminism of the Nineties
Letitia Meynell 179

Resurrecting Language Through Social Criticism:
Toni Morrison's Paradise as Insurgent Political Discourse
Sally J. Scholz 203

Understanding Racism as an Ethical Ideology:
An Approach to Critical Communication in a White Supremacist Society
John R. Wright 217

PART IV: CRITICAL COMMUNICATION AND THE TASK OF SOCIAL PHILOSOPHY

On the Task of Social Philosophy: A Reply to Axel Honneth
Nicholas Kompridis 235

Communication, Recognition, and Politics:
Reconciling the Critical Theories of Honneth and Habermas
Jordy Rocheleau 253

Toward a New Paradigm in Social Philosophy
Irina Predborska 265

The Role of Intellectuals in the Reconciliation Processes
in Post-Communist Latvia
Juris Rozenvalds 275

Contributors 287