

BALKAN JOURNAL OF PHILOSOPHY

Vol. 15, Issue 1, 2023

The issue is sponsored by the Bulgarian National Science Fund, competition “Bulgarian Scientific Periodicals – 2023”, project No: KII-06-HII4/52 from 05.12.2022

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Special issue devoted to the topic of “Creativity after automation”

Articles on “Creativity after automation”

Creativity after automation / 3
Nevena Ivanova, guest editor

Invited paper
Imagination and the infinite—A critique of artificial imagination / 5
Yuk Hui

Invited paper
Computational creativity or automated information production? / 13
Anna Longo

Authentic expression and the Cyborg Relation:
An approach to engaging with computer-generative art / 23
Chariklia Martalas

The interrelation between Philosophy for Children (P4C) and creative thinking / 35
Ramazan Akan, A. Kadir Çüçen

Creativity versus automation: Towards the last frontier, and with our jobs on the line? / 41
Jan Løhmann Stephensen

Towards a new computational aesthetics of creative software / 53
Damien Charrieras

Clashes of temporality in AI and artistic creativity / 61
Nevena Ivanova

Creativity through autonomy: The real challenge of the computer art today / 69
Nikoleta Kerinska

Artificial intelligence: Three philosophical interpretations of the anthropocentric frame of reference / 77
Hristina Ambareva

Book review

Review of Nonka Bogomilova's book The Balkans: Marked Roads (1991-2016),
Sofia, 2020 / 85
Dragolyub Dzhordzhevich

A theory of aesthetic validity, inspired by Thomas Kuhn / 87
Diana Ghinea

Review of Oana Șerban's book After Thomas Kuhn. The Structure of Aesthetic Revolutions
(Boston, Berlin: De Gruyter, 2022)