

Environmental Philosophy

Spring 2021

Volume 18, Issue 1

CONTENTS

ARTICLES

- Climate Justice for the Dead and the Dying:
When Past-Oriented Environmentalism Isn't Enough Julia D. Gibson 5
- Temporal Ontology in Ecology: Developing an Ecological Awareness Through Time,
Temporality, and the Past-present Parallax Jack Black 41
Jim Cherrington
- The Usefulness of Uselessness for Conservation in the Ways of Zhuangzi Felix Landry Yuan 65
- Kant's Pre-critical Ontology and Environmental Philosophy Zachary Vereb 81
- Tracks: A Material Phenomenology of the Road Brian Seitz 103
- How Do Houses Make the Political Possible? Joshua Mousie,
Gabriel Eisen, Mahaa Mahmood 123

BOOK REVIEWS

- The Power of the Periphery: How Norway Became an Environmental Pioneer for the World—*
by Peder Anker Josh Berry 151

Heidegger's Concept of Philosophical Method: Innovating Philosophy in the Age of Global Warming— by Vincent Blok	Will Britt 155
Living Earth Community: Multiple Ways of Being and Knowing— by Sam Mickey, Mary Evelyn Tucker, and John Grim, eds.	Tim Irwin 160
E-Co-Affectivity: Exploring Pathos at Life's Material Interfaces— by Marjolein Oele	Brian Hisao Onishi 164
A World Not Made for Us: Topics in Critical Environmental Philosophy— by Keith R. Peterson	Ela Tokay 168