

Table of Contents

- I. Frank Edler, Peru State College
Heidegger on Logic, Language, and the Revolution: Prelude to 1933
- II. Alan Milchman & Alan Rosenberg, Queens College
Heidegger, Planetary Technics, and the Holocaust
- III. Miles Groth, College of Staten Island
The Telling Word: Heidegger's Commentary on Adalbert Stifter's Ice Tale
- IV. Patrick A. Heelan, Georgetown University
Heidegger's Longest Day: Twenty-five Years After
- V. Eugene Gendlin, University of Chicago
Words Can Say How They Work
- VI. Graham Parkes, University of Hawaii - Manoa
The Influence of Japanese Philosophy on the Development of Heidegger's Thought
- VII. Lawrence Hatab, Old Dominion University
Ethics and Finitude: Heideggerian Contributions to Moral Philosophy
- VIII. Pol Vandavelde, Marquette University
Heidegger and Husserl on the Western Tradition
- IX. P. Christopher Smith, University of Massachusetts - Lowell
The Uses and Abuses of Aristotle's Rhetoric in Heidegger's Fundamental Ontology:
The Lecture Course, Summer, 1924
- X. Theodore Kisiel, Northern Illinois University
Heidegger's Gesamtausgabe as a Philosophical Problem: Prolegomena
- XI. John Protevi, Villanova University
More Light than Heat: The Privilege of Solar Locomotion over Generation in Heidegger's
Reading of Aristotle on Time
- XII. David Crownfield, University of Northern Iowa
The Question of God in Heidegger's Beiträge

Appendixes

- A. Ice Tale, by Adalbert Stifter (for III)
- B. Documentarium (for X)
- C. Heidegger Conference Mailing List, 1993