

MIDWEST STUDIES IN PHILOSOPHY

Volume XXXIV

Film and the Emotions

Movies, the Moral Emotions, and Sympathy . . . . .	Noël Carroll	1
Film Appreciation and Moral Insensitivity . . . . .	Susan L. Feagin	20
“I Followed the Rules, and They All Loved You More”: Moral Judgment and Attitudes toward Fictional Characters in Film . . . . .	Carl Plantinga	34
American History X , Cinematic Manipulation, and Moral Conversion . . . . .	Christopher Grau	52
Getting Carried Away: Evaluating the Emotional Influence of Fiction Film . . . . .	Stacie Friend	77
The Rationality of Emotion toward Fiction . . . . .	Seahwa Kim	106
Seeing and Imagination: Emotional Response to Fictional Film . . . . .	E. M. Dadlez	120
Empathy and Identification in Cinema . . . . .	Berys Gaut	136
Fiction Film and the Varieties of Empathic Engagement . . . . .	Margrethe Bruun Vaage	158
Hybrid Truths and Emotion in Film . . . . .	Robert J. Yanal	180
Why We Should Give Up on the Imagination . . . . .	Derek Matravers	190
Moving because Pictures? Illusion and the Emotional Power of Film . . . . .	Robert Hopkins	200
The Ghost Is the Thing: Can Reactions to Fiction Reveal Belief? . . . . .	Aaron Smuts	219
Vivid Abstractions: On the Role of Emotion Metaphors in Film Viewers’ Search for Deeper Insight and Meaning . . . . .	Anne Bartsch	240
Feeling Prufish . . . . .	Murray Smith	261
Mixed Feelings: Conflicts in Emotional Responses to Film . . . . .	James Harold	280

The Diving Bell and the Butterfly as an Emotional Event . . . . .	Tarja Laine	295
Whimsicality in the Films of Eric Rohmer .....	Peter Lamarque and Peter Goldie	306
Bergman and the Film Image.....	Gregory Currie	323
Erratum .....		340