some of our Contributors

Nana Ariel

is a writer, a researcher and a lecturer in rhetoric and the learning sciences at Tel Aviv University. She was a visiting scholar and guest lecturer at Harvard University, and has published articles in various journals and international magazines. Her children's book is titled The Most Boring Book in the World.

Nick Everitt

taught philosophy at the University of East Anglia, and briefly in the U.S., before taking early retirement as a Senior Lecturer. He is the author of Modern Epistemology (with Alec Fisher) and of The Non-existence of God. He has also published on a wide range of philosophical topics.

Teresa Britton

is professor of philosophy at Eastern Illinois University, where she teaches a variety of courses including The Meaning of Life and Philosophy of Science. When not in the virtual or real world classroom, she enjoys travel, studying world languages and time with family.

Paul Stearns

is a philosophy professor at Blinn College in Texas. He has loved teaching philosophy for the last twenty years and previously taught middle school and high school. His interests focus on ethics, wisdom traditions, and metaphysics.

Daniel Toré

A philosophy graduate of Oxford Brookes University, he emigrated to Sweden several years ago with his wife Rebecca and children Lukas and Leo. He teaches theoretical philosophy and English at the Swedish Open University. His interests include Wittgenstein, ethics, epistemology, and logic.
