some of our Contributors

Miriam Gorr

Miriam Gorr is a PhD student in philosophy at the Schaufler Lab @TU Dresden, Germany. Her focus is on the ethics of artificial intelligence and robotics. In particular, she is interested in whether AI-based machines have moral status and by which methods this can be determined. To this end, she draws systematic comparisons to theories and methods of animal ethics and animal cognition.

Kanan Purkayastha

Kanan Purkayastha holds a doctorate degree in Theoretical and Atmospheric Chemistry from the University of Bristol. He has spent the last forty years in academia, industry, and government departments. Currently he is acting as a specialist scientific advisor to the local government, and is an executive committee member of the Oxford Philosophical Society.

Natasha Beranek

Natasha Beranek is editor of the new Anthropology and Transhumanism book series at Trivent Publishing. She has a PhD in Social Anthropology from University College London. Her interests include posthumanism, the ethics of emerging technologies, Nietzschean philosophy, and musical experience in the rock and heavy metal scenes.

Paul J. D'Ambrosio

Paul D'Ambrosio is professor of Chinese philosophy at East China Normal University in Shanghai, China. He also works on AI, and his most recent book is on identity in the digital age, titled You and Your Profile (Columbia University Press, 2021), co-authored with Hans-Georg Moeller.
