some of our Contributors

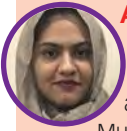

Marilyn Piety

lives in Philadelphia where she is a Professor of Philosophy at Drexel University. She received her PhD in philosophy from McGill University in Montreal. Her books include a translation of Kierkegaard's Repetition and Philosophical Crumbs (Oxford, 2009)

Shai Tubali

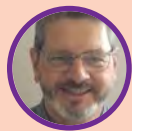

has published fourteen books, mostly on South Asian philosophy, and lives in Berlin. His MA dissertation, Cosmos and Camus: Science Fiction Film and the Absurd, was published by Peter Lang. He is doing PhD research at the University of Leeds on the ideas of Jiddu Krishnamurti in relation to the dialogue forms of ancient Greece and India.

Atika Qasim

is a Pakistani freelance writer, currently working as a contributor for MuslimGirl and Airstool.

She graduated with a Bachelor in Science (Hons.) in Political Science from Forman Christian College University, Lahore. A chai enthusiast by day and paleontology geek by night, she hopes to one day find a 'real job' (pun intended).

Steve Anderson

is a retired philosophy teacher, living in the little 'London' of Ontario, Canada, along with his stoical wife, two philosophical cats and one rather philosophically-limited dog. In addition to book reviews, he has previously contributed articles on such subjects as Hume, miracles, ethics, atheism, the golden rule and the meaning of life.
