

■ Table of Contents

Authenticity, Freedom, and Gelassenheit	371
Javier A. Ibañez-Noé
Transcendental Exhaustion: Repeating Heidegger's Fundamental Ontology	387
James Gilbert-Walsh
Time is Out of Joint—And So Are We: Deleuzean Immanence and the Fractured Self	405
Nathan Widder
Questioning the Self: Kierkegaard and Derrida	418
John F. Whitmire, Jr.
The Ethical Importance of Being Human: God and Humanism in Levinas's Philosophy	428
Pat J. Gehrke
What's So Funny? Or, Why Humor Should Matter to Philosophers	437
Camille Atkinson
William James's "Specious Present" and Willa Cather's Phenomenology of Memory	444
Patrick K. Dooley
Deconstructing the Rational Respondent: Derrida, Kant, and the Duty of Response	450
Jane Mummery
The Threshold of The Invisible: Said, Conrad, and Imperialism	463
Russell Ford
"Strike Flat the Thick Rotundity o' the World": A Phenomenology of Anger in Shakespeare's King Lear	477
J. Keeping
Books Received	486
Annual Index	488
