

Proto Sociology

An International Journal of Interdisciplinary Research

VOL. 14, 2000

Folk Psychology, Mental Concepts and the Ascription of Attitudes
On Contemporary Philosophy of Mind

CONTENTS

Alvin I. Goldman Folk Psychology and Mental Concepts	4
Philip Pettit How the Folk Understand Folk Psychology	26
Jane Heal Understanding Other Minds from the Inside	39
Christopher S. Hill From Assertion to Belief: The Role of Linguistic Data in the Practice of Belief-Ascription	56
David M. Rosenthal Content, Interpretation, and Consciousness	67
Jay L. Garfield Thought as Language: A Metaphor Too Far	85
Robert M. Gordon Sellars's Ryleans Revisited	102
Louise Röska-Hardy Self-Ascription and Simulation Theory	115

Brian P. McLaughlin Why Intentional Systems Theory Cannot Reconcile Physicalism With Realism about Belief and Desire	145
Gerhard Preyer Primary Reasons: From Radical Interpretation to a Pure Anomalism of the Mental	158
Rebecca Kukla How to Get an Interpretivist Committed	180
David Pitt Nativism and the Theory of Content	222
Raffaella De Rosa On Fodor's Claim that Classical Empiricists and Rationalists Agree on the Innateness of Ideas	240
Consuelo Preti Belief and Desire Under The Elms	270
Erwin Rogler On David Lewis' Philosophy of Mind	285
Barbara Von Eckardt, Jeffrey S. Poland In Defense of the Standard View	312
ON CONTEMPORARY PHILOSOPHY OF LANGUAGE, ONTOLOGY AND MORAL THEORY
Thomas Baldwin Nearly Logic	332
James E. Tomberlin Logical Form, Actualism, and Ontology	346
Arend Kulenkampff, Frank Siebelt What a Noncognitivist might tell a Moral Realist	355
Contributors	378

Imprint	380
On ProtoSociology	381
Published Volumes	382
Bookpublications	387
Subscription	404
Digital Publications – Special Offer	405