

RENAISSANCE

ESSAYS ON VALUES IN LITERATURE

VOL. LXIV, NO. 4

CONTENTS

Summer 2012

The Problem of the Prodigal in
The Fair Maid of the West, A Christian
Turned Turk, and The Renegado Joshua Mabie 299

“The shadow of this crime . . . is over me yet”:
Narrative Discourse and the Knowledge of Evil in
Barry Unsworth’s Morality Play J. Cameron Moore 321

Calmly Making Ribbons of Eternity:
The Futility of the Modern Project in
Flann O’Brien’s The Third Policeman Lanta Davis 341

Augustinian Evil and Moral Good in Lolita Sean Benson 353

Notes on Contributors 368

Index to Volume LXIV 370