

CONTENTS

Introduction 7

PART ONE. MEANING: PERCEPTION, LANGUAGE, AND ART

Samuel J. Todes, Sensuous Abstraction and the Abstract Sense of Reality 15

Alphonso Lingis, The Elemental Background 24

Stephen A. Erickson, Language and Meaning 39

Don Ihde, Language and Experience 50

Robert Goff, Aphorism as Lebensform in Wittgenstein's Philosophical Investigations 58

Cyril Welch, Speaking and Bespeaking 72

Albert Hofstadter, On the Consciousness and Language of Art 83

Edward S. Casey, Meaning in Art 100

John J. McDermott, Deprivation and Celebration: Suggestions for an Aesthetic Ecology 116

José Ferrater-Mora, Reality as Meaning 131

PART TWO. NIHILISM AND THE ABSURD

Stanley Rosen, Nihilism 151

Arthur C. Danto, Semantical Theory and the Logical Limits of Nihilism 159

George L. Kline, The Varieties of Instrumental Nihilism 177

Thomas Hanna, Existence and the Absurd 190

Paul G. Kuntz, Making Sense of the Absurd 199

Carl R. Hausman, Intelligibility and the Existentially Absurd 212

PART THREE. THE SELF, SOCIETY, ACTION, AND HISTORY

James M. Edie, Necessary Truth and Perception:

William James on the Structure of Experience 233

Robert R. Ehman, William James and the Structure of the Self 256

John Wild, William James and the Phenomenology of Belief 271

William Leon McBride, Sartre and the Phenomenology of Social Violence 290

Zygmunt Adamczewski, Kant's Existential Thought 314

Frederick A. Olafson, Human Action and Historical Explanation 363

A Note on the Contributors 380