

CONTENTS

Introduction	I
--------------	---

PART ONE

INTERPRETING MAN

PAUL RICOEUR, Human Sciences and Hermeneutical Method: Meaningful Action Considered as a Text	13
CHARLES TAYLOR, Interpretation and the Sciences of Man	47
HANS JONAS, Change and Permanence: On the Possibility of Understanding History	102
FRED R. DALLMAYR, Phenomenology and Social Science: An Overview and Appraisal	133

PART TWO

EVIDENCE AND THE EGO

DAVID MICHAEL LEVIN, Husserlian Essences Reconsidered	169
RICHARD M. ZANER, Reflections on Evidence and Criti- cism in the Theory of Consciousness	184
JITENDRA NATH MOHANTY, Towards a Phenomenology of Self-Evidence	208

JON WHEATLEY, Phenomenology: English and Continental	230
LESTER E. EMBREE, Reflection on the Ego	243
ROBERT V. STONE, The Self-Consciousness in Self-Activity	253

PART THREE

SCIENCE, MATHEMATICS, AND LOGIC

THEODORE KISIEL, Scientific Discovery: Logical, Psychological, or Hermeneutical?	263
ROBERT TRAGESSE, On the Phenomenological Foundations of Mathematics	285
GIAN-CARLO ROTA, Edmund Husserl and the Reform of Logic	299
ROBERT SOKOLOWSKI, Logic and Mathematics in Husserl's Formal and Transcendental Logic	306

PART FOUR

EMOTIONS, ART, AND EXISTENCE

GEORGE SCHRADER, Anger and Interpersonal Communication	331
ALBERT ROTHENBERG, The Anatomy of Anger	351
EUGENE T. GENDLIN, A Phenomenology of Emotions: Anger	367
ALEXANDER SESONSKE, Cinema Space	399
WILLIAM EARLE, Variations on the Real World	410
WILLIAM COBB, Being-in-the-World and Ethical Language	423
CHARLES E. SCOTT, Existence and Consciousness	434