

Techné:
Research in Philosophy and Technology
Volume 24, Issues 1 & 2 (2020)

New Editors' Introduction:

Philosophy of Technology after Forty-five Years / Techné at 25

Kirk Besmer and Ashley Shew..... i

Special Issue

Critical Constructivism and Postphenomenology: Ethics, Politics, and the Empirical

Guest Editors

Lars Botin, Bas de Boer, and Tom Børsen

Technology In Between the Individual and the Political:

Postphenomenology and Constructivism

Lars Botin, Bas de Boer, and Tom Børsen..... 1

Almost a Critical Theorist . . .

Don Ihde..... 15

Critical Constructivism, Postphenomenology, and the Politics of Technology

Andrew Feenberg.....27

Building Scaffolds: How Critical Constructivism and Postphenomenology Could Gather in Common Enterprise

Lars Botin .....41

Discovering Subjectivity in the Technosystem: Developing a Critical Position towards Contingent Forms of Rationality

Bas de Boer.....62

“But, That’s Not Phenomenology!”: A Phenomenology of Discriminatory Technologies

Robert Rosenberger.....83

The Purpose of Theory: Why Critical Constructivism Should “Talk” and Postphenomenology Should “Do”

Yoni Van Den Eede..... 114

Contingency and Potential: Reconsidering a Dialectical Philosophy of Technology Darryl Cressman .....	138
The “Embodied Multi-Material Layering” of In-Vitro Meat Tina Sikka .....	158
Democratic Potentialities and Toxic Actualities: Feenberg, Ihde, Arendt, and the Internet Nolen Gertz .....	178
The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly Lisa Nelson .....	195
Bridging Critical Constructivism and Postphenomenology at Techno-Anthropology Tom Børsen .....	218

Book Review

Philosophy of Technology in the Anthropocene avant la lettre Review of Ernst Jünger’s Philosophy of Technology: Heidegger and the Poetics of the Anthropocene , by Vincent Blok Mithun Bantwal Rao .....	247
---	-----