

Business & Professional Ethics Journal

Contents

Vol. 29, Nos. 1–4 (2010)

Note from the Editors	1
Farewell from Outgoing Editor Robert Baum	3
A New Take on Deceptive Advertising: Beyond Frankfurt's Analysis of 'BS' Andrew Johnson	5
Afghan-Americans' Awareness of Business Ethics: A Study Based on Gender, Age, and Education Bahaudin G. Mujtaba and Belal A. Kaifi	33
Corporate "Grassroots" Activism: A Juxtaposition Scott T. Paynton and Maxwell Schnurer	63
The Necessary Illegitimacy of the Whistleblower Kim R. Sawyer, Jackie Johnson, and Mark Holub	85
Living Wages and Institutional Supply Chain Duties Philippa Smales	109
Free to Smoke Nicholas A. Snow and Walter E. Block	135
Influence of Economic Reward and Punishment on Unethical Behavior: An Empirical Study A. N. M. Waheeduzzaman and Elwin Myers	155
Notes on Contributors	175

NOTE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Business and Professional Ethics Journal has a new editorial team based at DePaul University's Institute for Business and Professional Ethics. To encourage research into the interaction between individuals, organizations and the socio-political and economic realities of which they are a part, the editors welcome submissions from many disciplines, including management and organization studies, philosophy, political economics, social psychology, sociology, religious studies, history, and anthropology. As the BPEJ strives to broaden the scope of philosophical analysis within business and professional ethics scholarship, it seeks papers that explore the implications of continental philosophy for organizational life, while also pursuing original research from the perspective of Anglo-American philosophy. From an empirical perspective, the Journal invites scholarship informed by ethnography and other qualitative research methodologies. It also welcomes submissions that explore practical implications of the interface(s) between business ethics and professional ethics.