

Table of Contents

Vol. 2, No. 3

Why Corporations Are Not Morally Responsible for Anything They Do	I
Manuel G. Velasquez, S.J.
Toward a Theory of Bribery	19
John R. Danley
More Blacks on Boards of Fortune 500 Companies: A Dream Deferred	41
Lloyd D. Elgart and Lillian Schanfield
Engineering Needs a Loyal Opposition: An Essay Review	51
Edwin T. Layton, Jr.
Commentary by Robert M. Anderson, Robert Perrucci, Dan E. Schendel, and Leon E. Trachtman	61
Book Reviews
Goldman, The Moral Foundations of Professional Ethics, and Bayles, Professional Ethics	69
Reviewed by Tim Morris
Barber, The Logic and Limits of Trust	77
Reviewed by David H. Mills
Elliston and Bowie (eds.), Ethics, Public Policy, and Criminal Justice	79
Reviewed by Roberto Hugh Potter
Schaub and Pavlovic (eds.), Engineering Professionalism and Ethics	81
Reviewed by Peter List
Announcements	87
Notes on Contributors	91