

THE HARVARD REVIEW OF PHILOSOPHY

Alexander Nehemas

Alexander Nehemas reflects on Socrates, aphorisms, and television

24

Cora Diamond

Cora Diamond discusses riddles, truth, and Wittgenstein

69

Cover Photo: Polly (Ethel) Thayer, Miss May Sarton, 1936. Courtesy of the Fogg Art Museum, Harvard University Art Museums, Gift of Paul J. Sachs through Polly Thayer Star and May Sarton. Picture of Cora Diamond by Mary Bernard. Picture of Hilary Putnam courtesy of Harvard News Archives.

VOLUME VIII • SPRING 2000

LECTURE

“To Think with Integrity”:
Hilary Putnam’s Farewell Lecture 4

ECONOMIC PHILOSOPHY

Human Nature and the Character of Economic Science 14
By Israel M. Kirzner

INTERVIEW

Alexander Nehemas:
On the Philosophical Life 24

ETHICS

Kant’s Puzzling Ethics of Maxims 39
By Jens Timmermann

POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY

Rethinking Progress 53
By Marc Schattenmann

INTERVIEW

Cora Diamond:
“What Time is it on the Sun?” 69

ANCIENT PHILOSOPHY

The Manual of Domninus 82
By Peter Brown

INTERVIEW

Tom Wolfe:
Philosophical Fiction 101

HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY

Philosophy as Hubris 110
By Hans Feger

In Volume VII (Spring 1999) of the Review, we published an interview with Stanley Cavell. The text, as published, had not been approved by Professor Cavell. We apologize to Professor Cavell for our error.