

THE HARVARD REVIEW OF PHILOSOPHY

Selim Berker delivered the Ninth Annual Lecture of the Review.

VOLUME XXI | FALL 2014

ETHICS	4
No-Fault Responsibility for Outcomes By Robert Merrihew Adams
PHILOSOPHY OF MIND	18
What Is It Like To Be Asleep? By Alexis Burgess
AESTHETICS	23
Wittgenstein, Music and the Philosophy of Culture By Garry L. Hagberg
PHILOSOPHY OF LANGUAGE	41
Quine's Indeterminacy: A Paradox Resolved and a Problem Revealed By Alexander George
EPISTEMOLOGY	56
Between Realism and Rortianism: Conant, Rorty and the Disappearance of Options By Cora Diamond
METAETHICS	76
A Critique of Non-Descriptive Cognitivism By Ayoob Shahmoradi
MODERN EUROPEAN PHILOSOPHY	87
Kant on Self-Knowledge and Self-Reference By Lilian Alzweiss
POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY	106
Defending the One Percent? Poor Arguments for the Rich? By Peter Baumann
PHILOSOPHY OF LITERATURE	113
The Tragedy of Misrecognition: The Desire for a Catholic Shakespeare and Hegel's Hamlet By Simon Critchley

Image credits: The image of Selim Berker was taken by Rose Lenehan at Amherst College.