

THE HARVARD REVIEW OF PHILOSOPHY

Table of Contents Volume XXIX | 2022

Philosophy and the Environment

Editors' Introduction Nathan Beaucage and Polina Whitehouse	v
Environmental Philosophy at the Edges of Science Bryan G. Norton	1
Is a Philosophy of Nature Still Tenable? Michael Marder	21
Platonic Love of Nonhuman Nature and Animals Elisa Aaltola	33
Against Relational Value Simon P. James	45
Politics and Ecology among Calvino's Trees: An Exercise in Narrative Scholarship and the Environmental Humanities Serenella Iovino	55
Intergenerational Ethics, Moral Ambivalence, and Climate Change Marion Hourdequin	69
In Lieu of an Environmental Ethic: Beauty, Good Lives, and the Preservation of Nature Daniel M. Haybron	89
An Interview with J. Baird Callicott Nathan Beaucage and Noemi Iten	121
An Interview with Holmes Rolston III Sam Libenson and Justin Wong	131
An Interview with Peter Singer Noemi Iten and Sam Libenson	137