

THE HARVARD REVIEW OF PHILOSOPHY

Jeremy Waldron delivered the Sixth Annual Lecture of the Review.

Page 4

Hilary Putnam discusses philosophy of mathematics, realism, Habermas, ethics and more.

Page 143

VOLUME XVIII | SPRING 2012

LECTURE	4
What Are Moral Absolutes Like? By Jeremy Waldron
PHILOSOPHY OF PERCEPTION	31
A Straightforward Solution to Berkeley's Puzzle By John Campbell
PERSONAL IDENTITY	50
Integrity Over Time: Korsgaard and the Unity Criterion By Maximilian de Gaynesford
PERSONAL IDENTITY	73
"We Live Beyond Any Tale That We Happen to Enact" By Galen Strawson
EPISTEMOLOGY	91
On Meta-Epistemology By Duncan Pritchard
MORAL RESPONSIBILITY	109
Responsibility Without Identity By David Shoemaker
PHILOSOPHY OF LANGUAGE	133
Context and Use By Jason Bridges
INTERVIEW	143
On Mathematics, Realism, and Ethics An Interview with Hilary Putnam

Image credits: The photograph of Jeremy Waldron is courtesy of Leo Sorel. The photograph of Hilary Putnam is courtesy of Guido Castagnoli. The cover image of Leonardo da Vinci's painting "La Scapigliata" is the courtesy of Wikimedia Commons.