

PHILOSOPHY & THEOLOGY
VOLUME 27 NUMBER 1 (2015)

Vladimir de Beer 3–24

The Cosmic Role of the Logos, as Conceived from Heraclitus until Eriugena

Jean-Pierre Fortin 25–54

*Critical Theology, Committed Philosophy:
Discovering Anew the Faith-Reason Dynamics with Origen of Alexandria and Augustine of Hippo*

Edward R. Moad 55–73

*Between Divine Simplicity and the Eternity of the World:
Ghazali on the Necessity of the Necessary Existent in the Incoherence of the Philosophers*

Cyril Orji 75–105

Does Lonergan Know C. S. Peirce?

Joshua R. Farris 107–126

*Substance Dualism and Theological Anthropology:
A Theological Argument for a Simple View of Persons*

Jessica M. Murdoch 127–152

*Contesting Foundations:
Karl Rahner and Francis Schüssler Fiorenza's
Nonfoundationalist Critique*

John-Mark L. Miravalle 153–169

The Trinity's Choice: Oppy, Bergson, and God's Decision to Create

Daniel R. Kern 171–187

The Logic of Salvation in the Gospel of John

Michael C. Hawley 189–207

*Newman's Immanent Critique of Liberalism:
A Philosophical Argument against Liberal Hubris*

W. Chris Hackett 209–233

Prayer, the Political Problem: Desire, Contemplation, and Models of God

Roberto Di Ceglie 235–252

Alvin Plantinga and Thomas Aquinas on Theism and Christianity

James B. South 253–255

Editor's Page