

Contents

Introduction Martin Gustafsson	1
Self-Awareness and Cognitive Agency in Descartes's Meditations Lilli Alanen	3
Why an Aristotelian Account of Truth Is (More or Less) All We Need Jeff Malpas	27
The Social Aspects of Aristotle's Theory of Action Dorothea Frede	39
Voluntarism, Intellectualism, and Anselm on Motivation Tomas Ekenberg	59
Why Kant is not a Kantian James Conant	75
"A Contrast between Two Pictures": The Case of Perception Jennifer Hornsby	127
On What Is in Front of Your Nose Anton Ford	141
Expression and Self-Consciousness Stina Bäckström	163
Bodily Movement and Its Significance Will Small	183
Anscombe's Bird, Wittgenstein's Cat: Intention, Expression, and Convention Martin Gustafsson	207

Film Noir and Weakly Intentional Actions: An Anscombian Analysis Elinor Hällén	239
Theory, Interpretation, and Law: Some Worries about Dworkin's Account of Their Relation Lisa Van Alstyne	265
Stoutland vs. Metaphysics Lars Hertzberg	287