

Contents

Introduction	Harry van der Linden	vii.
Part I. Democracy and Radical Listening
1. Is Democracy a Universal Value? Whose Democracy?	Karsten J. Struhl	3.
2. The Radical Potential of Listening: A Preliminary Exploration	Lisa Heldke	25.
Part II. Marx, Alienation, and Racism
3. Rough, Foul-Mouthed Boys: Women's Monstrous Laboring Bodies	Amy E. Wendling	49.
4. Marx, Capitalism, and Race	Tom Jeannot	69.
Part III. The Struggle against Racism
5. Immigration, Race, and Liberal Nationalism	John Exdell	95.
6. When the House Is on Fire: Finding Hope in the Midst of Democratic Despair	C. W. Dawson, Jr.	111.

Contents

7. Please Don't Make Me Touch 'Em: Towards a Critical Race Fanonianism as a Possible Justification for Violence against Whiteness Tommy J. Curry	133.
8. Why Violence Can Be Viewed as a Legitimate Means of Combating White Supremacy for Some African Americans Dwayne A. Tunstall	159.
Part IV. Prisons, Oppression, and Democracy
9. Prisoner Oppression and Free World Privilege Jason L. Mallory	177.
Book Discussion of Angela Y. Davis, Abolition Democracy
10. The Prison Contract and Abolition Democracy Eduardo Mendieta	209.
11. "From the Prison of Slavery to the Slavery of Prison": Angela Y. Davis's Abolition Democracy Brady Thomas Heiner	219.
12. In Search of Abolition Democracy Mechthild Nagel	229.
13. Abolition Democracy and the Ultimate Carceral Threat Jeffrey Paris	237.
Abstracts	249.
Contributors	255.