

Civil War History

CONTENTS FOR JUNE 2022

Volume Sixty-Eight · Number Two

SPECIAL ISSUE: PRINT CULTURE

Special Guest Editors: Sarah E. Gardner and Jonathan Daniel Wells

113 Contributors

114 Guest Editors' Overview

Sarah E. Gardner and Jonathan Daniel Wells

ARTICLES

117 “We Need a Press—a Press of Our Own”: The Black Press
beyond Abolition

Jim Casey

131 The Collective Making of Frederick Douglass' Paper

Benjamin Fagan

147 Humor, Minstrelsy, and the Representation of African Americans in Macon's Georgia Telegraph and Georgia Citizen, 1855–1860

Rosalyn Narayan

164 “The Gold of the Pen and the Steel of the Sword”: The Unlikely and Fleeting Celebrity of Theodore Winthrop

Timothy J. Williams

178 Juno's Civil War: Black Knowledge and Racial Resolution in Julia Collins's The Curse of Caste

Brigitte Fielder

194 Reading the Emancipation Proclamation: Viewing Race and Freedom
during the Civil War Era

Aston Gonzalez

On the cover: The Anglo-African magazine, Title page. Courtesy of the New York Public Library

BOOK REVIEWS

- 210 Maladies of Empire: How Colonialism, Slavery, and War Transformed Medicine, by Jim Downs
Reviewed by Thomas J. Balcerski
- 212 Arguing until Doomsday: Stephen Douglas, Jefferson Davis, and the Struggle for American Democracy, by Michael E. Woods
Reviewed by Evan C. Rothera
- 213 Women Making War: Female Confederate Prisoners and Union Military Justice, by Thomas F. Curran
Reviewed by Melissa DeVelvis
- 215 A Worse Place Than Hell: How the Civil War Battle of Fredericksburg Changed a Nation, by John Matteson
Reviewed by Kathleen Logothetis Thompson
- 217 All That She Carried: The Journey of Ashley's Sack and a Black Family's Keepsake, by Tiya Miles, and On Juneteenth, by Annette Gordon-Reed
Reviewed by Catherine Clinton