

Film and Philosophy

Volume II 1995

Guest Editor: Allan Casebier

Movie Pleasures and the Spectator's Experience: Toward a Cognitive Approach by Carl Plantinga	3
Screening The 'I' of the Camera by Daniel Herwitz	20
Constructivism in Cognitive Film Theory by Kevin W. Sweeney	33
The Self and the Other in Roeg's Eureka and Sartre's Being and Nothingness by Cynthia Baron	45
Making Sense of Genre by Deborah Knight	58
Phenomenology, Poststructuralism, and the Cinema of Time by Jeffrey A. Bell	74
Filmmaking, Logic, and the Historical Reconstruction of the World by Evan William Cameron	88
Cavell's Philosophy and What Film Studies Calls "Theory": Must the Field of Film Studies Speak in One Voice? by William Rothman	105
Who's Silencing Whom? by Marian Keane	111

This year's cover is by Randall Stano.