

Editor's Introduction
Chris Nagel	page ii
President's Message:
The Unwobbling Pivot in an Era of Transnational and Multicultural Considerations
Paul Majkut	page iv
Verdad y Otredad en Emmanuel Lévinas como Raíces de la Comunicación
Mauricio Beuchot	page 1
La situación de la fenomenología contemporánea en América Latina
Antonio Zirión Quijano	page 9
The Status of Phenomenology in Contemporary Latin America
Antonio Zirión Quijano	page 19
Conceptos de Saber y Verdad Desde la Perspectiva de la Lengua y la Cultura Zapoteca.
Vicente Marcial Cerqueda	page 27
The Concepts of Knowing and Truth in Zapotec Language and Culture
Vicente Marcial Cerqueda	page 33
Global Multiplicities
Stephen Crocker	page 39
Globalización, Cultura y Comunidad
Alberto J. L. Carrillo Canán	page 45
Why Global Mass Media Genres Are Not Only Implausible But Even Impossible
Lars Lundsten, Ph.D.	page 49
"Community of Communication" vs. "Global Village"
Chris Nagel	page 53
Diaspora and Global Telecommunications—Voice and World
Dennis E. Skocz	page 59
Art in the Process of Global Communication
Krystyna Wilkoszewska	page 65
"The Communicative Use of the Face. "
Beata Stawarska	page 69
Cyberflesh: The Visible and the Invisible
Alex Zukas	page 73
From Phenomenology to Deconstruction: Multiplications of Space, Time, Image—and Culture
Micheala Ott	page 79
Splitting Hairs and Talking Back : Neo-Colonial "Post-Colonial" Theory and Nappy Hair
Paul Majkut	page 85
Digital Flesh: Posthuman Media Meets Merleau-Ponty
Stuart J. Murray	page 95
Possessed by Radio
Professor Kathryn S Egan	page 101
Lived Poetry: The Phenomenology of Writing
Matti Itkonen	page 107
Defining The Moving Image
Tobias Borup	page 113
9/11/01 and the Pull of History
David R. Koukal	page 117
Lady in the Radiator; Phenomenology, Embodiment, and the World of Eraserhead
Jonathan Wiedenbaum	page 123