

Midwest Studies in Philosophy

Volume XX

Moral Concepts

Stories	John Martin Fischer	1
Battered Women and Bombed-Out Cities:
A Question of Responsibility	Marion Smiley	15
Evil and the Concept of a Human Person	Laurence Thomas	36
Pity as a Moral Concept/The Morality of Pity	Felicia Ackerman	59
The Many Faces of Morality	Amelie Oksenberg Rorty	67
Agent-Based Virtue Ethics	Michael Slote	83
Moral Impartiality	Bernard Gert	102
Moral Partiality	David Archard	129
Morality as What One Really Desires	Arnold Zuboff	142
Inviolability	F. M. Kamm	165
Immorality	Bernard Baumrin	176
Deception and Moral Decency	David Nyberg	186
Responsibility Regarding the Unthinkable	Michael J. Zimmerman	204
Unprincipled Ethics	Gerald Dworkin	224
Moral Supervenience	Nick Zangwill	240
In Defense of Thick Concepts	Jonathan Dancy	263
Hume and the Bauhaus Theory of Ethics	Geoffrey Sayre-McCord	280
Is a Good Will Overrated?	Thomas E. Hill, Jr.	299
Mill, Moore, and the Consistency of
Qualified Hedonism	Fred Feldman	318
Utilitarianism and Equality	Thomas W. Pogge	332
A New Kind of Ethical Naturalism?	R. M. Hare	340
What Is the Justice-Care Debate Really About?	Leslie Cannold, Peter Singer, Helga Kuhse, and Lori Gruen	357
Pluralistic Relativism	David B. Wong	378
Social Responsibility	Larry May	400
Collective Responsibility as a Problem for Liberalism	John Kekes	416
Causation and Responsibility in Euthanasia
and Assisted Suicide	Martin Benjamin	431