

Midwest Studies in Philosophy

Volume XXIV

Life and Death: Metaphysics and Ethics

Metaphysics as Prolegomenon to Ethics.	Joel Kupperman 1
The Meaning of Life	John Kekes 17
In Defense of a Common Ideal for a Human Life.	E. M. Adams 35
Can the Dead Really Be Buried?	Palle Yourgrau 46
Later Death/Earlier Birth	Christopher Belshaw 69
Death and the Psychological Conception of Personal Identity	John Martin Fischer and Daniel Speak 84
Thick and Thin Selves: Reply to Fischer and Speak	Frederik Kaufman 94
The Termination Thesis.	Fred Feldman 98
The Evil of Death Revisited	Harry S. Silverstein 116
Death and Asymmetries in Normative Appraisals	Ishtiyaque Haji 135
Appraising Death in Human Life: Two Modes of Valuation	Stephen E. Rosenbaum 151
“For Now Have I My Death”: The “Duty to Die” versus the Duty to Help the Ill Stay Alive	Felicia Ackerman 172
Taking Life and the Argument from Potentiality	Roy W. Perrett 186
Privatizing Death: Metaphysical Discouragements of Ethical Thinking.	John Woods 199
Justifications for Killing Noncombatants in War	F. M. Kamm 218
Capital Punishment and the Sanctity of Life	Philip E. Devine 228
Aesthetics: The Need for a Theory	Mary Mothersill 243
Contributors	255